For Your Safety

Radio Frequency (RF) Energy

The equipment complies with FCC RF exposure limits set forth for an uncontrolled environment.

Using equipment in compliance with these limits is essential to avoid exceeding the RF exposure limits. The inner side of the back cover must be at least 2.0 cm (0.8 inches) from your body when using the device in your ear, and at least 10 cm (4 inches) from your body when using the device away from your head and body (e.g., placed on a table).

RF Interference

This equipment is not for use in a medical environment.

Your mobile phone is a radio transmitter and receiver. It is designed not to exceed the limits for exposure to radio waves recommended by international guidelines. These guidelines were developed by the independent scientific organization ICNIRP and include a substantial safety margin designed to assure the safety of all persons, regardless of age and health.

The guidelines use a unit of measurement known as the Specific Absorption Rate, or SAR. The SAR limit for mobile phones is 1.6 W/kg.

This model of mobile phone has been tested and meets the RF exposure guidelines when used with a distance of at least 0.4 inches (10 mm) from the body. The SAR for this mobile phone model is 0.12 W/kg.

To ensure compliance with RF exposure guidelines, use only the provided accessories and follow the provided instructions for use with other accessories. If you do not follow these instructions, you may exceed the RF exposure guidelines.
